

Short Curriculum Vitae

Professor Chris RIZOS

Chris Rizos is currently Head of the School of Surveying & Spatial Information Systems at the University of New South Wales, Sydney, Australia, home to Australia's premier academic navigation and earth observation research groups. Chris has been researching the technology and applications of GPS since 1985, and is an author/co-author of over 500 journal or conference papers. Chris is President of the International Association of Geodesy, Co-chair of the Multi-GNSS Asia Steering Committee, and a member of the Executive and of the Governing Board of the International GNSS Service.